

Rural Missouri Needs Medicaid Expansion

Dina van der Zalm, Missouri Rural Crisis Center

Impact of Medicaid Expansion on Rural Missouri

Currently:

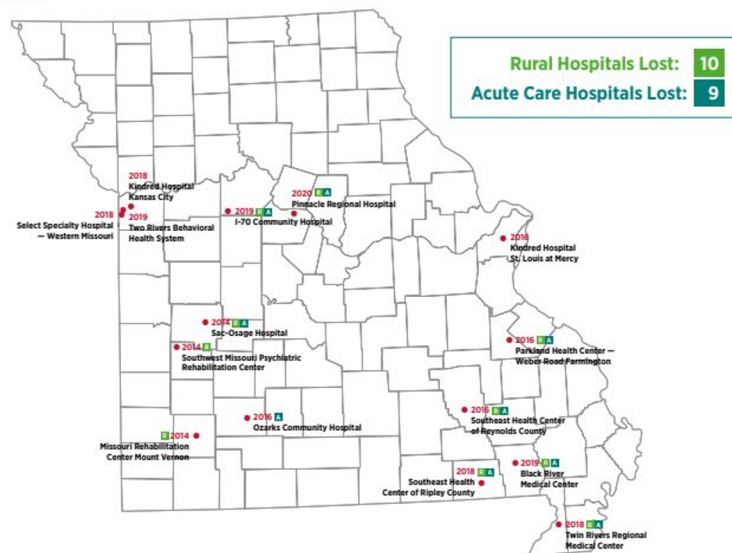

- Higher rates of un- and underinsured populations than urban counterparts
- Older, lower income and higher rates of chronic illness
- Increasing insured population
 - Less than 24% of the population lives in rural Missouri, but 33% of those who would be covered by Expansion are in rural areas.
- Keeps rural hospitals open, protecting frontline jobs
 - Seniors aging in place need access to care
 - Missouri has nearly 100,000 farms– the need for critical and emergency care facilities and infrastructure is vital to safe and successful farming
- Job creation
